Terms of Service

Wedding Player is provided without charge for invited guests at one private wedding event. By using it, you agree to these terms.

Permitted use

You may search for songs, submit eligible YouTube links, view the shared queue and use event features made available by the organiser. You must not attempt to bypass guest limits, impersonate another guest, gain administrator or playback-host access, disrupt the local server, or submit unlawful, harmful or inappropriate material.

YouTube content

YouTube videos are supplied and played by YouTube through its official embedded player. Your use of YouTube features is also subject to the YouTube Terms of Service and the Google Privacy Policy. Wedding Player does not own, download or redistribute YouTube content.

Availability and moderation

The organiser may reject, reorder or remove requests, pause or stop playback, change limits, restrict access or discontinue the service at any time. Availability depends on the local network, the organiser's Mac, internet connectivity and third-party services.

No warranty

The application is provided on an "as is" and "as available" basis for a private event. To the extent permitted by law, no guarantee is made that every search result, video or feature will remain continuously available.

Privacy

Information handling is described in the Wedding Player Privacy Policy.

Contact

Questions about these terms or the service can be sent to Márkus Richárd at earbash3@gmail.com.

Changes

These terms may be updated when necessary for the event, legal compliance or changes to YouTube API Services. The date above identifies the current version.
